25. Senate Majority Leader Malcolm Smith has said that he won't bring the same sex marriage bill to a vote in the senate unless he knows it will have at least the 32 votes needed for passage. Some, including the Governor, have urged Senator Smith to have a vote regardless of whether or not he thinks it will pass and let all senators vote yes or no on the bill. Do you agree with Senator Smith that the bill should only be voted upon if it will pass, or do you agree with the Governor that there should there be a vote regardless of how many votes it will get?
