Siena New York Poll: Spitzer Continues to Lead Pataki & Other Republicans Hillary Maintains 2:1 Lead Over Pirro & Cox NYers Want Bottle Bill Expanded; 76% Support Legalizing Marijuana for Medical Purposes

Loudonville, NY – Democrats Eliot Spitzer and Hillary Clinton continue to maintain strong leads over potential Republican opponents in next year's gubernatorial and senate races. Spitzer has a 13point lead (50-37 percent) over George Pataki, and he beats Jeanine Pirro by 33 points and Thomas Golisano by 31 points. Clinton beats either Pirro or Edward Cox by 30 points.

"While the Governor's favorability increased among Republicans, suburbanites and upstaters, he continues to trail Spitzer by a considerable margin and voters are equally divided about their view of Pataki, with 46 percent having a favorable opinion of him and 45 percent having an unfavorable opinion," said Joe Caruso, Director of Polling for the Siena Research Institute (SRI). "As the Governor prepares to make public his decision on whether he will seek re-election, he would begin his quest for a fourth term from a difficult position with 28 percent of voters (and only 33 percent of Republicans) saying they would re-elect him, while twice as many voters would prefer someone else.

"If the Governor does not run, Spitzer would clobber Pirro if she decides to seek the state's highest office," Caruso said. "And he would also crush perennial Independence Party gubernatorial candidate Thomas Golisano, should he try and run as a Republican."

United States Senator Hillary Clinton's favorability rating (60-33 percent) and re-elect number (59 percent) are essentially unchanged in the last month.

"Hillary's popularity among New York voters – with the exception of Republicans – remains strong, with three in five having a favorable opinion of her and believing she should be re-elected," Caruso said. "Hillary beats Westchester D.A. Pirro or Nixon son-in-law Edward Cox by 30 points."

More than half of New York voters (52 percent) support expanding the bottle bill to include deposits on juice, water, sports drinks and iced tea, while only 27 percent would support eliminating deposits on all beverage containers and instituting a new tax on recyclable or litter-generating products. One in ten would keep the law as is with no changes.

By a margin of 76-17 percent New York voters support legislation to allow people with illnesses to use marijuana for medical purposes, as long as it's under the supervision of a physician who prescribed it.

"As the legislative session winds down, there is strong support for two bills being considered," Caruso said. "By a two-to-one margin, New York voters support expanding the bottle bill to include other beverage containers as opposed to eliminating deposits all together and instituting a new tax to help dispose of these materials. And by more than 4 to 1, voters support legislation legalizing marijuana for medical purposes."

For the fifth consecutive month, fewer than one-third of New York voters feel the state is headed on the 'right track,' while 44% continue to believe the state is head in the 'wrong direction.'

"Downstaters, minority voters and those under 35 are a bit more optimistic about the direction of the state," Caruso said. "However, those over 35, whites and upstaters overwhelmingly believe the state is headed in the wrong direction."
